ETHICS IN INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS

MOSTAFA RAHDAN\textsuperscript{a1}, LOTFOLLAH MIRHASHEMI\textsuperscript{b} AND EHSAN NAFIAN DEHKORDI\textsuperscript{c}

\textsuperscript{ab}Shahrekord University of Medical Sciences

ABSTRACT

Naturally, each country's own national traditions, the community have its own rules of conduct. These laws and traditions developed and formed over thousands of years and progress of the nation. The rules are diffusion of religion for do not put in the difficult position; it is possible ethics, national characteristics, traditions and rituals of the country from which you visit to learn not to abuse its citizens. Of course, the basic rules have not changed, but they have their own attributes and methods. Often even the most polite person is placed in a difficult position. To avoid getting lost in a strange country, not only the language, but also the ability of natural, safe, courteous, and you deserve it. Such skills were not presented itself. Skills must be learned in a lifetime. In our time, countries can develop rapidly. If you've decided to do a tour or a business trip abroad to go, well, you should know more about that country. Then you act acclimate to the situation without any extra running will be easier. In addition, you can show its profound respect for the people.

KEYWORDS: Ethics, Communications, International

Understanding of international relations, necessarily requires a reason for players to engage in a range of actors in the system, regardless of what is in their nature. On the one hand, they should take steps on track to meet their own needs, on the other hand, refers to the fact that revealed in a vacuum does not form, but also in relation to other factors considered by the actors, life perspectives are also possible. Within this logic, the stress is on track to reach the international stage actors’ demands that the question is what factors are among the factors determining what is a valid and preferred a more progressive. One of the elements is in international relations, the role of ethical issues and ideas in shaping the nature of interaction between actors. Throughout history, this has been a point of controversy for ethical position must attribute the actors and their decisions. From 2400 BC, this topic has been brought up to date. Aristotle in the Greek cities to the Italian city states and eventually metropolis Machiavellian global village has commented on the ethics of what role will be played by interactions between actors in the territory. Historically, leads us to this position that morality has never been a universal basis for the behavior in the international mark the quality of life of ultimate strategic decisions. Understand the system, this fact clearly asserts that supposedly non-value considerations, foundation and basic framework for making highlights. Decision analysis as well as the scene in which the actors apart from the fact that there have been at what point and in what geographic, performance criteria are not optimal policy, but has always been limited proficiency in terms of resources, time and energy viewpoint. Considering these points, it is believed that in the best possible stage of international relations and in the most optimistic assessment, ethics and situational role plays in shaping the nature of international relations and foreign policy. It is better than the large countries of the international system to protect your interests, not to let international relations, moral identity, because large countries - which enjoy superior - the refuge of moral justification (based on civic morality) to dictate desires they will pay for their values. So, as long as morality, the place is located, will not have the impact of natural and universal. Decision analysis as well as the scene in which the actors apart from the fact that there have been at what point and in what geographic, performance criteria are not optimal policy, but has always been limited proficiency in terms of resources, time and energy viewpoint. Considering these points, it is believed that in the best possible stage of international relations and in the most optimistic assessment, ethics and situational role plays in shaping the nature of international relations and foreign policy. It is better than the large countries of the international system to protect your interests, not to let international relations, moral identity, because large countries - which enjoy superior - the refuge of moral justification (based on civic morality) will be imposed on their own desires and values. So, as long as morality, the place is located, will not have the impact of natural and universal.
VITAL SOURCES OF FINANCE ON THE INTERNATIONAL SCENE

It is an understatement, the actors, regardless of their financial capacity, regardless of the value of Web distinctions attention to the way policies are called for the position to promote their locations on the world stage in the first place fixation and, if possible. During the "long peace" (1) to find it, as the era of "century of total war", (2) we touched it. It is obvious that due to the factors influencing actors, different paths to achieve their desires are considered. (3) Peace in the region - which includes internal characteristics of states that the volume of influence in shaping international - and regional conflict - the players, less emphasis on the role of the authority of the international civil life - we need to understand behaviors, policies and policy consistency are not based on a set of identical components with equivalent credentials. However, the actors, without exception, are influenced by two sets of facts, but their influence is not the same. Some facts, social nature which are at the heart of social life, while another group of facts, and nature is fundamentally out of our control. The result should be a distinction between the social world and the natural world. (4), while this is not consistent with the influence of the same size do not have the same impact. Actors in the area of international relations are essentially seeking a position on the extent of the use of all available assets. What situations, interactions, life, the amount, variety and volume of assets. Therefore, it is clear why these countries are all aimed at maximal follow the policy in relation to these assets. In This talked here from is not in power; Why who demand the this for we are to than one intelligibility single-next file necessary to prevent. This is why we introduced the concept of property that includes a multi-layered look at utility power is vital to the elements and components. The proposed theory of international relations, the assumption that the actors, the assets exceed their demands, there is a general consensus. Assets of the multitude of international law and union membership in international institutions is manifested in the local area should be focused on the military, economic security, value and quality patterns of social relations. Realists focus on the unchangeable human nature arises, along with structural realists believe that the importance of macroeconomic analysis, trying to accumulate the assets necessary to know because of the international nature of life greatly, as they are driven into chaos; one emphasis is on the server, while the other relies on structure, although both are important asset accumulation. "We are still faced with the practical reality of the extent to which an individual's decision to take shape political outcomes, and to what extent the impact of personal factors such as movements of history, and the system ideologies regime of practice."(5) Liberals believe that human nature can be changed, along with institutional liberals - do not deny the importance of military power - can also attach importance to the accumulation of assets need to achieve the status and situation acting; although they are passionately believes that "a broker in the final analysis, determines the relevant phenomena, what is significant." (6) Foreign policy analysis as a discipline distinct from realism and liberalism are considered in evaluating and understanding the terms of a large international players, with emphasis on the psychological aspects of why decisions are crucial to achieve a more favorable position takes place in the cast. Conditions defined by the decision maker and the actor do in a more favorable position. Conditions defined by the decision maker in the political structure of the pyramid, lifesaving behavior. Considering the fact that decision makers want to increase reputation and its position in the domestic scenes are obviously doing a great effort to the position and the position of enhance the international realm that directly led to the strengthening of their domestic situation. With regard to the decision makers in the field of foreign policy in the first place, want to maintain and strengthen its position in the power structure, it is natural that attention must be paid to the psychological aspects of grazing decisions. Cognitive theories of foreign policy are based on the fact that the benefits arising out of ideas and have no objective existence. (7) Thus, apart from the theoretical perspective of how to deal with why the actors of the international scene, it is evident that the country according to historical experience, you need to structure and personality, efforts to achieve a high position using put at the disposal of all assets. Assets in both domains are visible: internal and international domains territory. It is possible for actors trying to put on the fact that the position and his prestige to achieve the objectives of low cost and more efficient to improve the productivity of the resources that can be used for global scene in front of him. Accession to international organizations, which makes it possible for the actors to use the facilities and location - which is outside the scope of his authority - this helps to strengthen their position. These institutions actually are windows of opportunity to facilitate the achievement of their goals were successful. Considering the fact that institutions are formed and their orientation reflects how the power in the world, are living entities; raised because the players carry the weight to the conclusion that institutions will allow more opportunity to make demands. As a result, the institutions are "as the scenes in which relationships, show your strength." (8) The bodies are formed as the top performers - the international scene can benefit from having a larger size - whether through which they will achieve greater penetration. Although major players in favor of joining these organizations are institutions, but at the same time, the capacity of other actors that are joined, along with increases in capacity, which provides a vital source of power to the benefit of countries also be accessed. All actors are in an annexation institution in relation to their ability to gain volume although it may be of benefit to the same extent. In one institution, "... all parties are benefitted in the absence of accession definitely will not miss it." (9).

Accession to international organizations, the kind of property that is available to all players. Than the Thus, institutions are assets that will increase the need for interpolation only player in regional and global status. The promotion and status depends on the type, size and ability of normative and military power, economic power superior to the life of the donor institutions. Even the theories that the actor, his interest centered in yourself and maximize oriented (10) is considered, the analysis of liberal institutions as a framework that "... encourage oriented colleagues" (11), the opposition not serious. The heart of this type of cooperation, countries are able to gain access to international asset type. International assets increased maneuverability in the field and the gate is connected to a supranational power. Along with international assets, other quality of domestic assets is their nature. Domestic assets, are both part of the norm and the other, materialistic, the amount of assets in each community is different. In some societies, the normative, growing more prominent and vice versa. Peace in societies that are in the area, has ample assets norm of relief, because there is a belief that power unlike in the past - the gun sprang back - heavily influenced by the capacity and credibility is the norm. Course, this means is not material wealth, are important because the norms of society, credibility and legitimacy will be benefited from high quality material that exists in it. The two assets are intertwined in a society that material wealth in society, and widespread prosperity and security consequences that are positive, norms are certainly legitimate and growing up. In relation to international finance, the emphasis is on understanding the billiard balls of the world.... "{the} biggest balls on the table at any time and at any time can cause other balls to move, (12) joining the organization that has great power, its founder, and the international situation will improve ranking. However, when speaking of domestic assets is due to the emphasis on local capacity, not only autonomy, there is plenty more, but productivity gains for the actor’s life are more plentiful because no there is no cost benefit sharing in line with international actors. In respect of which the assets are prioritized, directly depends on the conditions, characteristics and regional actors and Stratified power is in the range gate. Achievements in the field of internal medicine, is dependent upon the quality and nature of material wealth and norms. Achievements in the field of international cooperation are in connection with “proportional to the size and weight of the governments involved {entity}.” (13) In general, it is chosen to be the property of facilitating the realization of desires. According to the available capacity of the actors in the realm of international and local scenes come to the decision that greater utilization of environmental assets is more efficient and appropriate. Decisions are formed in a vacuum, but in relation to the financial realities of college life can be at different levels. Beliefs about the decision to focus on domestic and foreign assets, or both, with emphasis of the course will be used simultaneously, depends on the structural and ideological frameworks. "Personal beliefs are social roots." (14) The actor chosen according to the decision makers are influenced by a belief bases. On the other hand, actors, regardless of their wishes and desires, are influenced by the nature of the international system. Having said that the beliefs, aspects of voluntary choice while the structure, nature and effect of such force is necessary. Thus, on one hand, and this is what should be stated in the policy making level, proper and sufficient, according to the beliefs, are generated by power, is not only important, but also the assessment and decision-makers imagine the power that is important and valid. (15) In this image, ability and power, as well as the text is evaluated based on the perceptions of decision makers. On the other hand, decisions that will draw attention toward what aspects of the property, is structural in nature and are oriented toward large-scale assessments. Unlike text-based evaluation to define the position, structural analysis, according to the pattern of distribution of power, focused on outcomes and results that believes that players who experience them, arising from the structure of the international system is necessary. (16) That means that the objectives of national interest, strategy, policy design, implementation, evaluation objectives, operating environment clearly affected by the insecurity and chaos. (17) What is clear, regardless of the weight of the main actors, geographical location and resources, the quality of the political power structure and cultural factors - social, are going to place your position in the regional and global levels to a level that is sufficient to fulfill the goals and desires package to create. Regardless of the fact that we believe that the ultimate goal of actors is security or that we believe that survival is their ultimate desire or that we extend the idea that actors are intended to contribute to peace; the issue of denial that all players without exception want the status that provides richness to their mental and physical capacities. At this point arises of what kind of property that provides access to the status of the most adequate way.

STRENGTH, PEACE AND SECURITY: THREE PILLARS OF INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS

According to the security, strength, and peace, are key pillars of security, without power, the gain is not necessarily needed to sustain peace and security. Without security and power player to be compromised survival without the continued strength of domestic peace is threatened. The date range for all decision makers, has always been considered the fact that the assets available, which one of the most adequate opportunity, most cost-efficient route and creates the framework for achieving the status and credit. Throughout history and in different countries according to the values of decision makers and simultaneously have the necessary systems to evaluate the desirability of national and international domains. Despite the different levels of economic development, levels of institutionalized political structures, principles, values and beliefs of decision makers are considered. However, they all aim to achieve the most satisfied with their status and situations are demanded. Three types of power in the visible universe: Military power, economic power and normative power. It is likely that the actor is not mentioned in any of the normative power of the baseline and prefers that all powers, strongly influenced by historical experiences, beliefs and values are normative. They are a symbol of American military power and Japan economic power criterion. It should be noted that the talk of the EU normative power Europe and the U.S. as a military power does not mean that Europe, U.S. lacks the military strength or lack of value of the component, but does the fact that each of the actors mentioned in the strategic culture, the International Role of, social, and of historical experience has prospects one the power of the types of to be most useful for identification purposes. The reason is that some players have emphasized more on the benefits should be determining the orientations; while some of the actors look as the basis of identity, life goals, they do not understand . Three theories on profit -oriented actors are raised. Some have believed that the state is essentially a desire for power and their ultimate goal is power. (18), while another theory is the belief that governments are essentially seeking survival and therefore try to provide maximum security. (19) On this basis, developed another theory which states that institutions exist because " hot pursuit decentralized cooperation, the government had governments are no that there is no effective mechanism of command." (20) The actors who figure to choose their identities are based. From the perspective of the actors, the more correct ideas, ideas and shared norms, the importance of a great figure to have visions and goals. "The best idea factors, the widespread belief intersubjective beliefs that are not reducible to individuals." (21) Every three theoretical framework adopted different assumptions; it is believed that the available assets must be used in order to reached the desired position. This means that "all governments are affected by this logic, it is an indication that they are not pursuing opportunities to benefit from each other, but they act are to ensure the other the government exploited do not place them. (22) with the important realization that governments act in a logical framework, it is worth considering, structures Login ventricular decide misunderstandings, it is clear that the states of all assets notice of availability and based on priorities in mind and pay attention to the realities of the operational environment to determine the approach. Actors, apart from what the "conflicting concepts in the study of international relations: Peace, Power and Security "(23) highest priority, in the context of operating conditions are subjective decision. Governments as the most players on the international stage, there are three options. They pay attention and emphasis on the interaction of international financial assets, and priority should be entered based on the strength of the material. It is possible for the government to pay attention and call for critical components of the normative power on the international stage that is influenced by the idea and values, after the evaluation of the material focuses on the international stage, while the other will focus on the fundamentals of identity values to be successful on the international stage. Although it is possible to state that none of these two conditions as separate categories, not looking at them is intertwined and according to the priorities and preferences and, most importantly, conditions, with priority given to the part of both of them and suggest effective. It can be stated that the people and the leaders of the gate valves can look at and wish it the best way to promote your status to management. Actors can in other words benefit model, action the people of state material interests. It is possible for the actors to act within the framework of the social model, this means that the political culture are the policy and guidelines, finally, the actors could rely on high-impact model to influence other countries. (24) Actors locations for promotion, they should give priority to the components of the material strength or that filed the initial emphasis on the components of the value of their powers. In both cases emphasize is that "there is a relationship between international relations and domestic politics." (25), although with different priorities, because it can take effect, arising from the hardware components or factors software is power. At the scene of international relations, this is the order that exists in the realm of order exists in the country. The actor, working primarily to the order of your favorite player's internal surveys, as well as the international scene is concerned, but there is a major difference between discipline and order within the arena of international relations. In the international relations discipline violations, the punishment does not necessarily follow. The top players, if they violate the order, they are not often faced with punishment, though contrary to international regulations and have the typical behavior of the U.S. invasion of Iraq in 2003. The internal courtyard of the order, the violation of the necessity and automatically punishing violations are pending. The international scene, the actor should be distinguished from the high position or with actors posed, is close to unity and can engage in without concern as an excuse to ignore international law and sovereignty, even within their own community, disregards the natural rights of its citizens. But in terms of local norms, values and conventions agreed upon the necessity of considering regulatory framework is necessary. However, in order breach international scene, costs, ethical, financial and human causes, but the fact that these costs are not entities, is considered manageable. Due to the critical point in the international arena, the international nature of the interaction is strongly influenced by the position and the position players and international values and rules easily be ignore (the invasion of Iraq, the invasion of Iraq, the Russians in Chechnya, etc.), those countries must be based within their operations that their success provide in the way of achieving their goals.
Countries apart from those that are critical to safety and the power and peace through cooperation can be considered desirable; they all want to achieve the most adequate position in the international relations. To achieve this, players can resort to policies based on balance, on the trail or transfer of responsibility. (26) However, there is also the possibility that within a liberal analysis and understanding of the nature of international relations, actors to achieve the desired position rather than the military balance in the institutional balance, there is a high degree of economic interdependence, are inclined. (27) So in any case, whether the proposed regulatory chaos or that we know that economic interdependence and its theoretical alignments, the desired goal is the same. It should be noted that both the humanities and the natural worlds not in evidence, are never unambiguous. (28) And cannot speak with absolute certainty, but it is possible to pay the overall analysis of the. An adaptation to this due structure and agency in the realm of international influence and their impacts on each other, are interrelated, its inability to be clarifying. The effect of ability on foreign policy is indirect and complex, because systemic pressures must make itself manifest through changes in the level of Intermediate. (29).

ETHICS IN THE INTERNATIONAL SYSTEM

Considering these points, we discover why actors cannot on the one hand; on the other hand they do not want to have to explain what the components are in constant or non-constant in his life to politics. States can never be sure about the intentions of facing each other. Uncertainty about the future and the expected change in the relative distribution of power will lead to enliven the drivers and barriers of collaboration or competition policy at the present time. (30) With the realization of this important and wider knowledge of the two properties, namely "the nature and logic of the system of conservation units (states) (31) must be stated whether ethics can be a determining factor in international relations." Decision makers are in the territory of any country, according to a set of components to deal with the life of the policy and engage the international scene. All decision makers often on foot, to bring this issue to the national interest, decisions and policies are based. As well as the fact that most ethical issues, is one of the most important elements in shaping the nature of the targets. For this reason, we have always been faced with the ethics in international relations. But this point is extremely crucial to note that apart from the extent to which ethics plays a role, always and at all times, morality is the issue status of the planning situation and evaluate goals plays or moral actors want as their interests may require or that they are indifferent to it; because its benefits are inadequate. National identity or the nature of the benefits can be personal. But either way, morality, always and in all circumstances according to conditions, is problematic role. This theory implies that the functional and operational point of view or cannot be applied to the statement "emphasized principles for an ethical foreign policy" (32). If the target position and the desired position, we must provide all the levers of power are all vital elements to be applied. What component of the grade of the elements forming ability, is applied to the components of what should be the priorities of the factors of ability, considerations arising from internal transactions on the one hand and the other hand, equations and international realities. Measures are not formed in a vacuum, as the consequences are influenced by the facts, however, should be chosen elements as tools of the utmost benefit to be provided, similarly, factors that must be considered to show the highest correlation between results and objectives, components to be used in the most diminutive allies to impose costs on the scene and the elements that come into the country's most prominent increase in power equations valid strive to decision makers. If the frame of reference we have listed, we realize that morality cannot be considered as a priority factor in the life giving nature of international relations. Due to the global scene, there are no binding rules for all, it is not necessary for everyone to adhere to ethical component. In this case, the actors, their policy is to realize the goal of ethical and other countries come to the conclusion that a much greater interest are lack of attention to ethical issues, so, automatically, a country in the realm of morality is for the world to be encountered in achieving the objectives in relation to sterilize it means to weaken its position internationally. On the other hand, when considering morality as an essential factor in the life-giving should be an important interaction effects that are consistent with the ethical principles of all actors of the ethical issues forming. Considering the fact that there is no such truth and countries based on different principles, values and ethics, interpret and define the effective interaction, does not exist. Each player tries to define its value as a moral element, and this causes the moral life rather than to facilitate communication, conflict, conflict and possibly crisis. Consistency key to ethical recruitment policy led to this is that transaction, in case of disputes strongly reduce the possibility of reconciliation and ethics are vital to the war. They are of the nature of morality to justify the need for a strong value and the result is that these could not decision makers in their trade relations with the other actors. Such a situation leads to the loss of flexibility and inability to seek moral and fears value for concessions - which is an essential element of peace -. The obvious point is that the assets must be used in order to better position and found valid., As we mentioned earlier, one of the assets, the assets are normative. Finance Minister normative bases of the columns below should be considered in the context of ethical values. So that morality is a form of property, there is no argument. This means that ethics should always be viewed as a capacity and a score. But the issue is when and in what circumstances and in what circumstances brought this understanding; it will be the full margin. Ethical norms have two sources. Some wish lists moral capacity, are entitled to non-territorial character and non-material nature. In this case, a country that is concerned with the ethics of this type of chair may give life to politics, because of the many, not all actors are "seeking power" (33) (apart from the fact that the power For security, welfare, etc. will be credited) and material needs, the country is trying to play the moral basis of such factors must be a lot of leverage and ability to gain strength in terms of its moral character is Abba which means reducing the status of the world. For this outstanding opportunity to play a role that ethics can be understood, it is necessary that the "World Wide moral order" (34) exists, and this is only possible when moral principles are the same. If morality is rooted in non-material, due to religious differences cannot be any moral life of the country as a constellation of satellites around it, blink, and take action based on the principles. Considering the stage of international relations, "the legal system, rules" (35) and undeniable, there is no legal requirement, one cannot expect the players to values that are congruent with the nature of their cultural and historical experience, undertakes. We cannot expect non-material values, ethical framework by which societies - civilizations have different ethics can be applied to immaterial Absolute oriented and speaks of the need to be immutable. Possibility that there is nothing on the scene international actors to take action based on the concepts of absolute orientation; the political, social, cultural, economic, military and technological, are constantly emerging in the international context of the realities of the world that the country must decide whether to pay it, will be in constant evolution. The extent that the whole foundation and, most importantly, the quality and distribution patterns of power are constantly changing; it cannot be based on the components of the fixed payment policy and payment system consequences in relation to the payment of the reaction. Another source of ethical norms is rooted in morality civil. In some communities, ethics, social nature and severity of the lack of a heavenly nature if civil ethics, context and identity to make policy decisions, and this mean that the interests and identities of actors, is a social construct. Personality and character of decision-making in the domain of image that depicts the realities of life, all reflect the social context in which he is living. They also hope to gain after hostile action or fear of loss and the need for aggressive or defensive responses are induced. (36) Players define their identity and consequently the operational environment and the interpretation of the facts that are strongly dependent on the internal political life and decision-making structure. Where are located. In such a situation, the individual is not life, but the social context. Due to the fact that the rational actor will focus on preferences and the consequences would be, and decides upon them, we discover why civic morality cannot be the basis for the life policy. Preferences are formed on the substrate and are reflected in the equations; so are a social construct and carry out their own social identity. Considering that civil society cannot exist in any geographical and there are different levels of development and the elements and components of civil society in the world are not the same range, quality and nature of rationality varies from society to society. So what should be considered a rational society, the society may no longer have to be irrational. Considering the rationality of the actor and his words reflect the cognitive structure of a social identity, we discover why life is not ethical decisions and raised the equations in the international relations as an element of permanent everlasting. Points to the necessity of morality, it was said, should be based on considerations of national and international nature of the situation, the type and level of experience. For the world's stage work ethic we must raise the question what world we are in the realm of legitimate moral norms,. This is obviously due to the different levels of development in different sizes, different roots Ethics (heavenly civil), different definitions of interests, the interests of differentiation in various communities (in some individual communities in some of the national geography) and daily exposure, there is a major change in all domains of life, the moral legitimacy of the integration. Moral norms, researchers are assets, but considering the facts mentioned, their performance will be very limited, it is necessary that the circumstances and situation ethics, what role will have to be decided. Finally, it should be noted that due to the power distribution patterns of the top countries in the international relations system and the policy demands its special status granted to it ethical, credibility the are life the goals can enjoy top players researchers moral norms system that values life context and this decision will certainly be contrary to the detriment of countries hostile and competing with the top players. Countries other big benefit is that moral values based decision making and consistency of policy benefits to be because in that case, moral norms great power, will be the criteria of necessity, will lead to the decline and weaken and international prestige that this would mean a loss of opportunity to realize the benefits of identity and consistency. Ethics should be regarded as a "power tool" and not as a "power of expression" (37) is considered the world's territory. Control means the power tool is a tool and means of coercive force and all the actors on the world stage, apart from the position, the amount of this type have the power. Top destinations proposed system and other countries, though not identical volume of the instruments of violence, but raised in relation to the expressive power of the system to various countries such as the development of political, economic and cultural diversity pose a virtually complete control over the norms and values possess. This means that the non-dominant countries have virtually no hope that this system will have the capability to compete with the players mentioned. The other big countries to maintain its current situation - at least, wanted to be - it is better that they do not want to enter into the realm of moral norms in international relations, because in that case, the lowest possible competition and, consequently, will have influence in shaping international realities.

CONCLUSION

Cause of life of the war, peace and cooperation and how to prevent conflict and build peace and cooperation manifested, being part of the field of international relations. Theoretical framework and the argument value throughout history have formed a strategic direction to answer these concerns; if the ethics component life by reducing conflict, improving the recovery position and the position of the player, must be the basis of politics in the international arena Otherwise, the productivity of the utmost immorality, because weakened the position of the incremental costs to society.

REFERENCES

